Module Content & Assessment
Indicative Content
Syllabus • A set of reading materials at a general level will be prepared. These will reflect the primary research interests of the students undertaking this module. • Each student will be required to read the literature and to critically review a selection of articles and share and discuss these reviews with their peers. • Each week a student will be assigned to lead the discussion through a formal presentation and then a 'round table' working session. • All learners will be evaluated for their contribution to the discussion by means of submission of short reflective reports • All learners will lead at least one session and submit a more extensive reflection involving critique of the papers under review • At the end of the semester, each learner will prepare a critical review of the literature which should demonstrate a clear understanding of the field, the major contributors, and the future direction of work (5,000 words).
